

Latisse® is a prescription treatment approved by the FDA to grow longer, thicker, and darker lashes.

Latisse® is believed to affect the growth phase of the eyelash hair cycle in 2 ways:

1. Increase the length of the “growth” phase.
2. Increase the number of hairs in the “growth” phase

The exact way in which Latisse® works is still unknown. The onset of results is gradual but usually a significant improvement is noted after 2 months of nightly use. Additional application is not known to increase the “growth” phase.

Contraindications

You should not use Latisse® if you are ALLERGIC to one of its ingredients. Also it is important to let your physician KNOW if you answered “YES” to any of the following questions:

Side effects

Possible side effects (in approximately 4% of reported users in Latisse® clinical trial) include:

- Eye itching
- Eye redness

Other less common side effects occur on the skin close to where Latisse® is applied or in the eyes:

- Eye irritation
- Dryness or redness of the eyelids
- Darkening of eyelid skin which may be reversible
- Darkening of the eye color, for example, hazel, green, or blue eyes change to brown (possibly permanent). However this was not seen in clinical trials for Latisse®. Documentation of higher doses of bimatoprost ophthalmic solution at significantly higher concentrations and when used for treatment of glaucoma.
- Unwanted hair growth in an adjacent area (Does not appear permanent).

If you develop a new eye condition (ex: eye trauma or infection), experience a sudden decrease in vision, have eye or eye lid surgery, or develop any eye or eyelid reactions, particularly an infection, or if you become pregnant, you should immediately talk to your DOCTOR about whether to continue Latisse® usage.
